

BFI SOUTHBANK GALLERY PRESS ANNOUNCEMENT

JANE & LOUISE WILSON and STANLEY KUBRICK at BFI SOUTHBANK

The Gallery at BFI Southbank, London, SE1
13 February – 26 April 2009

Private view: Thursday 12 February, 6.30-9pm

Admission free

www.bfi.org.uk/gallery

Stanley Kubrick, the enigmatic, highly influential and often controversial filmmaker is the inspiration for the latest project by leading British artists Jane & Louise Wilson. They have delved into the Stanley Kubrick Archive to create a 35mm film installation which is showing at BFI Southbank Gallery from February next year. The Gallery installation is commissioned by Animate Projects and the BFI with The Kubrick Archive, University of the Arts, London. It opens at BFI Southbank Gallery on 13 February 2009.

Jane & Louise Wilson have focused on Kubrick's Aryan Papers project, a film about the Holocaust that Kubrick researched in great detail for many years, but which he never made.

The exhibition coincides with a major retrospective of Stanley Kubrick films taking place at BFI Southbank.

Jane & Louise Wilson have also created an online version which will be at http://www.animateprojects.org/films/by_project/kubrick/kubrick. Further press information about Animate Projects from Emma Pettit, emma@margaretlondon.com / +44 (0)7852 196 539.

For further press information about the BFI Southbank Gallery and this exhibition, please contact Alison Wright alison@alisonwrightpr.com +44 (0)1608 811 474 or +44 (0)7814 796 930